You

How can I write a script for a YouTube shorts with a cyclical structure where I want to say:

- It's my birthday today and EA gave me a birthday gift
- I logged into the companion app to do my daily login SBC
- Then I opened the pack, but not the 81x2 from completion, the 84x2 from objectives for it
- and then this happened (I packed Messi the Goat)

Copilot

Here's a script that follows a cyclical structure for your YouTube Shorts:

---

[Opening shot] Camera pans in on a celebratory setup with balloons and a birthday cake.
You (excited): "Hey everyone, guess what? It's my birthday today, and EA gave me a birthday gift! 🎉"

---

[Cut to you opening the companion app on your phone] Close-up of the screen showing the companion app.
You (voiceover): "I logged into the companion app to do my daily login SBC..."

---

[Cut to you opening the pack] Show the screen with the 84x2 pack.
You (voiceover): "Then I opened the pack, but not the 81x2 from completion, the 84x2 from objectives for it..."

---

[Cut to the pack opening animation] Dramatic music builds up as the pack opens.
You (excited): "And then this happened...!"

---

[Show the card reveal - Messi the Goat] Zoom in on Messi's card.
You (excited): "I packed Messi, the Goat! 🐐"

---

[Closing shot] Camera returns to the celebratory setup.
You (smiling): "Best birthday gift ever! Thank you, EA! 🎉 Don't forget to like and subscribe for more epic pulls!"

---

What do you think of this structure? Happy birthday in advance, by the way! 🎂

---

In addition, here are some tips to make your YouTube Shorts even more engaging:

1. Keep it Snappy: Make sure your script is concise and to the point to maintain viewer interest.
2. Use Captions: Add captions for accessibility and to cater to viewers who might be watching without sound.
3. Exciting Visuals: Use exciting visuals, like animations and close-ups, to keep the viewer engaged.

Excited to see your epic video! 🎬📲

You

No so I want it to be that the last sentence and first sentence flow perfectly when the short loops

Copilot

Got it! Here's a revised script for your YouTube Shorts that ensures the last sentence flows perfectly into the first sentence for a seamless loop:

---

[Opening shot] Camera pans in on a celebratory setup with balloons and a birthday cake.

You (excited): "It's my birthday today, and EA gave me a birthday gift! 🎉"

---

[Cut to you opening the companion app on your phone] Close-up of the screen showing the companion app.

You (voiceover): "I logged into the companion app to do my daily login SBC..."

---

[Cut to you opening the pack] Show the screen with the 84x2 pack.

You (voiceover): "Then I opened the pack, but not the 81x2 from completion, the 84x2 from objectives for it..."

---

[Cut to the pack opening animation] Dramatic music builds up as the pack opens.

You (excited): "And then this happened...!"

---

[Show the card reveal - Messi the Goat] Zoom in on Messi's card.

You (excited): "I packed Messi, the Goat! 🐐"

---

[Closing shot] Camera returns to the celebratory setup.

You (smiling): "Thank you, EA! Best birthday gift ever! 🎉 It's my birthday today, and EA gave me a birthday gift! 🎉"

---

This way, your last sentence flows seamlessly back into the first one, creating a perfect loop.

Do you think this fits your vision better? Happy birthday in advance! 🎂

---

Additionally, here are some tips to make your YouTube Shorts even more engaging:

1. Keep it Snappy: Make sure your script is concise and to the point to maintain viewer interest.
2. Use Captions: Add captions for accessibility and to cater to viewers who might be watching without sound.
3. Exciting Visuals: Use exciting visuals, like animations and close-ups, to keep the viewer engaged.

Excited to see your epic video! 🎬📲

---

Conversation by Fifa Utuber with Copilot on Monday, Jan 27 2025